

Brush up on latest technology gadgets

The Youth of the ENS Youth Mentoring Partnership and the Prince William County Senior Citizen's Center, Woodbridge, are hosting a technology fair for seniors to bridge the information technology gap between seniors and youth. These young people will join the seniors Tuesday for a day-long, Help with Technology Fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to provide instruction and encouragement.

Many older adults are timid or shy about trying new "gadgets" and the latest technology. Whether it's programming a VCR, a DVD or a new cell phone, help is available. Our youth are well informed and connected to technology. They are really good at using this stuff — texting, using the Wii and iPod or a more

SENIORS

Woodbridge

Sherry Ruais

elaborate Blackberry.

If you have one of these high tech gadgets but don't know how to use all the different features, come over and get some help. Learn how to send a text message to your grandchild or great-grandchild. Learn how to use free e-mail to e-mail relatives in other countries. Learn more about your relatives through genealogy on the computer.

Does all this new technology have you scratching your head and maybe even more confused? This will all make sense when we will pair you up, one-on-one, with a young adult who will work with you, patiently, so that you can understand how to use the latest technology and amaze your friends.

For more information about ENS, please call the office at 703-221-6600 or visit ens-inc.org.

at the Prince William Senior Center at Woodbridge. The center will be opening late at 2:30 p.m..

- Tuesday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Tech. Fair, see description above.
- Wednesday, 10 a.m.,